Inside F1

How would you like the unique experience of living inside the skin of an F1 driver for a whole day?

The idea of the Lotus Renault GP I-race programme is to offer you the opportunity to experience moments of high adrenaline, normally the reserve of Formula 1 drivers alone.

As soon as you arrive, a team of 30 race team members will see to your every need as you play a key part in a top racing team: hospitality staff, race instructors, team engineers, mechanics and physiotherapists. Then, on with your overalls, gloves, boots and helmet - climb into your car and you're off!

Just for you

Formula Renault 2.0, Lotus GT4, F1 single seater:

Carefully aligned in the pitlane, the cars only await your arrival. To ensure you are always safe you are provided graduated instruction in driving ever more powerful machinery.

You will switch between driving a single-seater car, to being the driver and then a co-driver in a Lotus GT4 piloted by one of the teams reserve F1 drivers, before getting behind the wheel of an F1 single seater car for yourself for 2 laps of the challenging Hungaroring Grand Prix circuit.

VIP Guest

The I-race day immerses you in a programme where you will experience the highest standards of race car driver training.

This high paced day will require intense concentration, as it will guide you through the key activities our drivers experience within Lotus Renault GP.

You will be transferred from the hotel to the circuit, conduct a track recce with your race engineer, be given your safety equipment, receive training in both physical and driving techniques and have briefs and debriefs with your race engineers.

Being a racing driver is a fulltime job - and it is yours for a day!

Briefing

The various briefings will enable you to acquire the knowledge you need to understand how to drive an F1 single-seater.

As well as being shown how and where to position yourself on the track, you'll be taught how to use the gearbox, get acquainted with the cockpit layout and understanding the controls of the car.

Your instructors will leave nothing to chance and will ensure that they fully answer any of your questions. They are professionals and aim at ensuring your safety and unparalleled enjoyment - our top priorities.

Adrenaline

Your driving experience will entail:

- 2 x 20 minute sessions in a Renault Formula 2.0 (as a driver)
- 2 laps in Lotus GT4 (as a driver)
- 1 lap in a Lotus GT4 (as a high speed passenger)
- 2 laps in a high speed single seater (as a driver)
- Passenger laps in a 2 seater F1 car

Feedback

Track driving demands intense concentration and absolute precision. You must drive through a corner consistently every time, paying attention to the perfect line, braking point, apex, positioning your car, and accelerating away.

Analysing your telemetry readings will enable you to dissect each of your actions: braking, gear changes, engine speed, speed on entering corners and sector times.

Just as though you are a professional racing driver, the information you gather from your engineer's debriefing will help you understand a single-seater's characteristics and measure your progress, and you will be able to compare your times and telemetry data with the team's current F1 drivers.
